

TRAP FOR ANOTHER KILLS THE OWNER

Lebanon Farmer Forgot About the Gun.

Was Set for Thieves and He Was Met
When He Opened the Door By a Load of Shot.

AN IDEAL DERBY DAY TODAY

Lebanon, Ky., May 2.—James Ben Thompson, a young farmer, was shot and killed in a most distressing manner this morning. He had been missing corn from his crib and set a trap for the thief by loading a shotgun and arranging it at the door, so when it opened the gun would be discharged. Early this morning Thompson went to the barn to feed the stock and evidently forgot the trap, for when he opened the door the gun was discharged and the contents entered his breast, killing him instantly.

THE DERBY.

Louisville, Ky., May 2.—The weather and track for the derby are clear and fast. There are 20,000 people attending. The proceeds are even money, favorite Brancas, Second Choice, at three to one, Ed Tierney and Silverwings six; Elwood 15, Batts thirty.

A BRIGHT SABBATH

Thousands of People Were Out
Yesterday Enjoying Weather.

Excursions Well Patronized and the Street Car Company Hauled
Over 6,000.

Sunday was the first real pretty spring day enjoyed by Paducah folk since the spring months arrived, and hundreds were out both morning, afternoon and evening. The churches all had a good attendance and the excursions run out of the city were also well attended. Pretty girls with their spring headgear and dresses enlivened Broadway in the morning and afternoon and the livermen were rushed with orders for rigs and buggies. Their orders came so fast that it was impossible to supply the demand and many orders were turned down.

It was originally intended that a band concert be given at Wallace park but it was declared off. Next Sunday, if the weather is favorable, a concert will be given at the park.

Yesterday the two excursions run out of Paducah were both liberally patronized.

The big excursion steamer J. S. ran an excursion to Cairo and had about 1,200 people on board. She left the wharf at 8 o'clock and picked up many excursionists en route. The attraction at Cairo was a ball game at Golconda between the Paducah L. A. L. team and the Cairo K. I. T. league team and the St. Louis Diels.

The Dick Fowler carried an excursion party of 200 to Golconda, starting at Metropolis. A ball game at Golconda between the Paducah L. A. L. team and the Golconda boys, was the attraction at the Illinois town.

The street car traffic yesterday was unusually large, even for midsummer when many seek the cool park. The street railway company handled during the day between 6,000 and 7,000 people and expect next Sunday to haul even more if the weather is pretty, as a band concert will be given at the park.

CARNIVAL COMPANY UNINJURED.

The Muntz Carnival Company is in Birmingham, Ala., this week. It will be in Memphis next. Yesterday the company's special train was in a slight wreck in Arkansas, but there was no damage of consequence, and no one was hurt.

Mrs. William Strong and child, are quite ill.

THE BOARD WANTS PAYING THIS YEAR

Public Works Members Adopt an Important Report Today.

Ask the General Council to Order
Certain Streets Paved at Once.

SEVERAL MEETINGS TONIGHT

The board of public works held a meeting this morning at 10 o'clock at the city hall and adopted a report to the general council recommending as forecast in the Sun several days ago, that a portion of the streets be paved this year out of the $150,000 bond issue. The report was prepared under the direction of City Engineer L. A. Washington and signed by the members of the board, and will this evening be presented to the council.

The report to be presented tonight provides that the following work from the bond issue be done:

Kentucky avenue paved from First to Seventh street, inclusive of both First and Seventh.

Jefferson street, from Second to Ninth.

Broadway from First to Ninth street.

Seventh and Sixth streets from Kentucky to Jefferson, Broadway from Kentucky to Jefferson and Ninth from Broadway to Jefferson.

The paving is all to be of granitoid. The curbing from First to Fourth on Kentucky is to be of limestone, and from Fourth to Seventh to be six inch curb, 16 inch gutter.

On Jefferson from Second to Fifth there will be limestone curb, and from Fifth to Ninth, a six inch curb, and 16 inch gutter.

On Broadway from Fifth to Sixth there will be limestone gutter and from Sixth to Ninth six inch curb, with 16 inch gutter.

On Sixth, Seventh and Ninth streets there is to be all the way from Kentucky to Jefferson the six inch curb and 16-inch gutter, with the exception of Ninth, where it will be improved only from Broadway to Jefferson.

All the sidewalks are to be of granitoid, and the streets of vitrified brick.

The board recommends that the dirt from the storm water sewers be hauled away, and the trenches refilled with the gravel being taken from the streets excavated, and be well tramped and that it be done immediately so the work may be begun at once and completed this year.

It is recommended further that the board of public works be empowered to contract for the dirt, to be used in making the fills on Fourth street between Husbands and Elizabeth and on Husbands street between Fourth and Sixth streets. The dirt will belong to the contractor who does the paving.

The work recommended by the board of public works will cost about $80,000, including the storm water sewerage, but the city will have to pay only about half, and the property owners the other. This will leave over $100,000 of the bond issue untouched.

The evident intention of abandoning the plan of paving South Third street to the bridge is creating much dissatisfaction on the South Side. Many of the residents voted for the bond issue because they expected that thoroughfare, one of the most important in the city, to be paved.

It is stated that the extension of the sewerage system would not necessitate the tearing up of the streets there after it was paved. Mr. George Gardner, former sewer inspector, said today that the portion of Paducah above Husbands street can never be connected with the present sewerage system, as it is too high to be drained into it. If the city desires to sewer that part of Paducah, it will have to provide a new outlet, or practically a separate, independent sewerage system, which could be done without disturbing Third street if it were paved. Hence it is possible the city engineer may later on recommend the paving of

THE POLICE AFTER PRACTICAL JOKER

Had an Officer Make a Useless
Trip Yesterday.

Officers Are on the Lookout for
Runaway Boys From Union
City.

OTHER POLICE COURT NOTES

Officer William Rogers will today take out a warrant against Butler Fondaw, white, for calling him a long distance just for the fun of seeing him run.

Officer Rogers received a telephone message to come to the Houseman Grocery near the Cohankus Mfg. Co. plant, and when he arrived learned it was just a "joke." The officer failed to see the joke and will have Fondaw to tell the judge where the funny part comes in tomorrow in police court. This is the first instance where an officer has been called any distance on a false alarm and the police department intends to stop it now.

There was a shooting scrape on North 12th street Saturday night late in which Oscar Carman, colored, shot Ed Keeling and Charles Majors, colored, with a pistol. The trouble started over an argument and Majors received a wound in the leg and Keeling in the leg. The police arrested Carman and placed him in jail. Keeling and Majors were recognized to appear as witnesses in the case.

The case was continued until Wednesday morning. Two separate warrants were issued against Carman.

Chief James Collins this morning received a telephone message from Union City authorities directing him to arrest Robert Corton and hold him here until his father could come after him. Young Corton and a companion named Oscar Woods ran away from home last night and are supposed to be en route north to the world's fair. If arrested here they will be held until advice comes from Union City.

License Inspector Ed Cairk this afternoon took out a warrant against Bob Torian, of South Second, for doing a produce business without a license, and two against Fletcher Tertell, one for running a sales stable without a license, and the other for running teams without a license.

A man named Edwards, formerly in the saloon business, reported to the police that Saturday night near Sixth and Broadway some one had pointed a gun at him. He failed to recognize the man. Edwards thinks robbery was intended.

Mr. Jim Clark, the carpenter, reported to the police that he had lost his bicycle and thought it had been stolen. The police have been unable to locate it yet.

Third street to the bridge.

Tonight there will be several meetings. The joint finance committee of the general council will first meet to act on the circular letter regarding the bonds.

Immediately afterwards the two boards, the council and aldermen, will meet as a committee of the whole to act on the city hospital site matter. It is necessary for both boards to select the site in order that the committee may proceed to purchase the ground.

The regular council meeting will then be held, and the board of public works will appear before it and make the above report.

RUSSIA'S LOSS GREAT IN BIG LAND BATTLE

Details Give the Killed at 1,500 in Yalu Battle Sunday.

Battle Started Sunday Morning and Russians Were Driven Back to Second Position.

RUSSIAN MEN AND GUNS WERE CAPTURED

London, May 2.—Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister at London, this morning issued a report that the Captain of the gunboat Maya, which acted in conjunction with the Japanese land forces in yesterday's attack on the Russians along the Yalu May 1, had a detachment consisting of the Maya, the Uji and some torpedo boats, which ascended the Yalu and bombarded the enemy. While the detachment was returning the enemy's artillery suddenly attacked our torpedo boats which silenced the enemy after thirty minutes severe engagement.

All returned to Yungampo and there were no casualties. Our armed launches reached Antung the same morning and repulsed the enemy and fire was seen rising from the town. The natives said the enemy fled from Antung after setting it on fire.

RUSSIA'S ACCOUNT.

St. Petersburg, May 2.—The general staff accounts of the operations on the Yalu river yesterday is as follows:

"At 4 o'clock this morning Japanese field batteries with forty-seven guns opened a terrific fire on our position at Tunenchen and on our troops posted near Potietinsky.

"The overwhelming force of the Japanese in artillery and the heavy losses their fire inflicted on our troops occupying these positions, made it clear to Gen. Sasulitch that it was impossible to hold Tunenchen. Consequently the troops were ordered to retire from Tunenchen, while still holding the Potietinsky road.

"When Gen. Sasulitch dispatched his telegram, the troops were retiring in good order from Tunenchen and Shaakhiday to their second position, and the battle was continuing at Potietinsky and Tchin Gu."

THE JAPANESE VERSION.

Tokio, May 2.—Supplemental reports from Gen. Kuroki, covering Sunday's fighting, says:

"The Russians made two stands. The enemy's strength included all of the Third division, two regiments of the Sixth division, one cavalry brigade, about forty quick-firing guns and eight machine guns. We have taken twenty-eight quick-firing guns, many rifles, much ammunition, more than twenty officers and many non-commissioned officers and men as prisoners.

"I am informed that Maj. Kashtalinsky, commander of the Third East Siberian brigade, and Lieut. Gen. Sasulitch, commander of the Second Siberian army corps, were wounded.

"Our casualties number about 700, and their loss of more than 800 men."

RUSSIANS RETREAT

SOME MORE.

Tokio, May 2.—The Japanese captured Chin Cheng, ten miles north of Antung, which is regarded as the key to the Russian position on the right bank of the Yalu. It is expected that the Russians will retreat to Feng Huan Chang, which is on the road to Liao Yang.

CHANCE FOR JAPAN.

London, May 2.—Feng Guan Cheng, whether the Russians retreated, which in all probability will be the scene of the next engagement, is a large town. It is strongly fortified, situated among hills, and if the Japanese follow up their advantages, fighting may be resumed in a few days.

JAPANS' OBJECT

London, May 2.—Military experts believe the present objective of the Japanese is probably Liayang, from which point should they succeed in repulsing the Russians, a blow might easily be struck at Port Arthur from the rear.

RUSSIA CHANGES PLANS.

St. Petersburg, May 2.—It is rumored the Russian plans for mobilization have been sold through the treachery of an official at Warsaw. New plans accordingly have been laid, and the government has sent agents to Germany, Italy and France to buy warships.

BURNED THE TOWN.

Tokio May 2.—The Russians were forced to abandon Antung. They burned the town and retreated to Feng Huan Cheng. The Japanese now control the estuary of the Yalu.

BATTLESHIP GROUNDS.

St. Petersburg, May 2.—The new Russian battleship Orel grounded on Sandbank in Neva Monday, and it is feared great difficulty will be encountered in re-floating her.

CAPTAIN B. B. DAVIS

May Be Lieutenant Colonel of the Third Kentucky.

It Is Understood Colonel Jonett Henry
Will Succeed the Late Col. Smith.

It is reported in local military circles that Captain B. B. Davis of Paducah, will be made lieutenant colonel of the Third Kentucky regiment to succeed Colonel Jonett Henry whom it is generally understood will succeed the late Colonel T. J. Smith as colonel of the regiment.

It was reported that Captain Davis could have secured the higher position, but would not have accepted over Colonel Henry, who deserves it for his past excellent services.

The governor has not yet accepted the resignation of First Lieutenant Percy Jordan of the Wheeler Guards, Paducah, who sent in the resignation several days ago. It is generally believed that Second Lieutenant Jesse B. Moss will succeed Lieutenant Jordan. It is not known who will be chosen to succeed Lieutenant Moss.

The boys are beginning to look forward with pleasure to the summer encampment, which will be in the world's fair grounds. All the necessary arrangements have been made at St. Louis and the encampment will be inside the grounds, thus giving the boys free admission to the great show during their stay.

The I. C. depot lunch room is today being fitted up into a regular dining room and will be known as the I. C. eating house. The railroad people have taken charge and painters have painted the walls of the smoking room and lunch room and all furniture in the latter room.

After next Sunday the Cairo trains over the Cairo extension of the I. C., both coming and going, will not stop at Broadway and 11th streets but will go on through to the city depot.

TAKEN AT HIS WORD

Almost a Tragedy Results From Father's Joke.

Boy Places His Sister in the Barn and Sets Fire to It.

An intended joke came near resulting fatally near Metropolis, Ill., a few days ago. Doc Mangram was building a barn and his little son, aged four years, asked him what he was going to do with the old one.

He replied in fun that he "was going to burn it."

A short time afterwards the boy took his two year old sister to the barn, and thinking of what his father said about burning it, placed his sister in a hay pile and set fire to it. The barn was soon a mass of flames.

The boy ran to the house and told his mother that the barn was afire and his sister was inside, and she hastened to the flaming structure. She was forced to run through the flames to rescue the baby, and succeeded, but both she and the child were badly burned. The mother's hair was burned almost off, and she was burned all over the body, while the child was nearly burned to death, but may recover.

A SAD ENDING.

COUPLE ON THEIR WAY TO BE MARRIED DROWNED.

Cairo, Ill., May 2.—John Ramier, a young farmer of Boaz, Ill., and Miss Stella Curry, of Belknap, were drowned while driving from Belmont to Olmstead in a buggy.

The accident happened about one and one-half miles this side of Olmstead in what is known as America bottoms. The young couple were driving along the river road by the side of which the backwater from the river was standing several feet deep.

They had just crossed a bridge at Hesse's bayou, which was slightly covered with water, and in making a sharp turn immediately after crossing, the buggy ran into the deep water and both of the occupants were drowned, as was also the horse. The bodies were recovered.

The occurrence is an unusually sad one as the young people were going to Mound City to be married. Both of the young people are of prominent families.

Mr. Terrence Cooney, the druggist of Fifth and Jackson streets, who for more than a dozen years was on the road leading the Harris and other circus bands, entertained the musicians of the Ted Faust minstrels Saturday night at his drug store after the performance.

Mr. Alex Bowles, of Richmond, Ky., the leader of the band, was put in the music business by Mr. Cooney more than six years ago. He was placed on an alto horn in the Harris Nickel Plate shows, and since then has taken cornet and is an excellent player on this instrument.

Refreshments were served and the musicians left in the early morning delighted with the hospitality of the Paducah musician.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Congress.

Hon. J. C. Speight, of Graves County.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Tuesday and warmer.

DAILY THOUGHT.

There is always room for a man of force, and he makes room for many.—
Emerson.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RACE.

Hon. J. O. Speight, of Graves, is the Republican nominee for congress in this district, and he is going to make a good race. Ollie James is his opponent, and while it is evidently Ollie's intention to stay in congress the rest of his natural life, he may be fooled. He is a part of the Kentucky Democratic office holders' trust, and as could be seen from the tactics of the crowd in making his recent nomination, it is their intention to freeze out competitors hereafter by calling primaries and fixing a prohibition entry fee—$1500 it was to be the last time, if any one had come along who had that much cash to risk.

The best way for the Democrats to bust up this sort of business is to elect a Republican. Congress is largely Republican, and is going to remain so. A Republican from this district could do a great deal for the district, while a Democrat can do practically nothing, because Democrats in congress count for very little. If there is any object in having a district represented in congress, it is to accomplish something for the district, as well as for the country at large, and a man ought to be sent to represent the district who can do something besides draw a salary and occasionally make a blooming ass of himself.

Besides, Ollie is getting as mum as Parker himself on the presidential question. None of his constituents can find out who he is for, whether for Gorman, Parker, Hearst or Cleveland, although he is supposed to be one of the delegates from the state at large.

Can it be that he is merely sitting still piously hoping that the presidential lightning will strike his way?

IGNORING THE CONSTITUTION.

The decision of the court of appeals in the Beckham county case shows what an utter disregard the political nondescripts who controlled the last legislature had for the constitution and laws of Kentucky. There was no demand or necessity for the new county, and no excuse for it, unless the creation of new offices for the gang is considered an excuse.

It was pointed out at the time how the bill was obviously in violation of the constitution, and even if the legislators didn't know the constitution, they probably occasionally read the papers. But even if neither, they had their attention called to the provisions of the law by some of their colleagues' and their action in passing the bill despite all protests simply showed a determination to ignore the law. The people of the counties complicated by the creation of the bogus county will probably not feel very kindly towards the party that is responsible for the ensuing confusion.

Says the Fulton Commercial: "Now let our congress of the United States disperse and its members go home and go into their inner closets and repent in sackcloth and ashes that they had the opportunity, but done nothing for the common people of this country. They spent nearly eight hundred millions of the people's money exploiting things, making us look huge on the face of the earth, but the farmer and the mechanic and the laborer, who eat their bread in the sweat of their face, are left to their own resources to weather the storms of life as best they may." My, my! "Our congress of the United States 'done' nothing!" If it spent 800 million dollars though, certainly 'it done' something, although it is true it did not make any gratuitous appropriations for those who "eat their bread in the sweat of their face." Somebody ought to call in the health officer for the latter, if they don't go to using napkins or something. It always did take these smart literary fellows who say "they done nothing," though, to tell congress how to manage affairs.

General Simon Bolivar Buckner, once a leader of Kentucky Democracy, but who now lives in political seclusion because of his disgust for his party, said in an interview at Louisville the other day: "I am not interested in politics any more. Politics is not what it used to be. It seems to me that the principle has been forgotten and that it has all resolved itself into a fight to win from the other fellows." General Buckner is one of the many pioneer Democrats who are sagacious enough to see that there is no hope for Democracy.

Those gentle, easy going fellows we used to see hauling dirt and otherwise disporting themselves on the streets at the expense of the city, are probably off somewhere to themselves, singing the sad refrain, "The old home's not what it used to be." We have a board of public works now.

The Republican party's attitude was clearly expressed by Senator Beveridge the other day in congress when he said: "We have nothing to conceal; we have principles and are proud of them, and present them with confidence to the American people."

This from a Bryan-Gosbel-Hearst paper: "Without question, Cockran is the greatest orator in congress and one of the greatest men of the nation." Mr. Cockran should be very glad the Democrats have such a fickle memory.

St. Louis did herself proud at the opening of the big show, and it will be the general wish of the people of this country that it be as great a financial success as it is an artistic and architectural marvel.

Now that there is plenty of sand and stuff, let's get busy and pave the streets and get those abominable brick piles off the sidewalks.

Another jolt for Colonel Bryan. Panama is to adopt a gold standard.

Indians Defeated at Poplar Bluff in Close Game

League Meeting at Clarksville Soon to Act on Schedule—Amateur Games Yesterday.

NATIONAL LEAGUE RESULTS

The L. A. L. team of Paducah defeated the Golconda boys yesterday at Golconda by a score of 6 to 4. The game was fast and few errors were credited to the teams.

The batteries were Hassman and Hayes for Paducah and Belford and Welton for Golconda. The Paducah boys made 11 hits and 4 errors while Golconda made 7 hits and two errors.

The features of the game were the fielding of Decker and Vogt for L. A. L. and the throwing of third baseman Wade for Golconda.

The local boys were treated nicely by the Illinois boys and will probably get the Golconda team to Paducah soon to play here on the home grounds.

Next Sunday the L. A. L. and Central will cross bats at the Central grounds in the rear of the I. C. shops.

Few details of the game yesterday at Poplar Bluff, Mo., between an independent team of that place and the Paducah Kitty league team, reached here. All dispatches say that the game resulted in a victory for Poplar Bluff by a score of 2 to 1, the game lasting 16 innings. Freeman pitched for Paducah.

The St. Louis Diels met defeat at the hands of the Cairo K. I. T. league team yesterday at Cairo by a score of 7 to 0. Cairo played faultless ball, it is said, and outclassed the Diels. The St. Louis team is the same which played here recently and was defeated by a score of 25 to 5.

Paducah might get Hovey A. Witt, the pitcher she traded Cairo out of last season and then released. Witt was a crack player and Paducah needs several of this calibre. He has just telegraphed Cairo wanting to play there but Cairo has all the players she wants.

There must be some mistake in regard to Pettit going to Clarksville. He was transferred to Vincennes with the Jackson franchise, this action being approved by Secretary Farrell, and furthermore, he has accepted terms offered by Vincennes.—Cairo Bulletin.

The following names have been suggested as appropriate to the clubs in the league, bases upon the color of their uniforms: Cairo Whites; Clarksville, Grays; Henderson, Blue Birds; Hoptown, Browns; Paducah, Indians, and the Vincennes Reds.

The manager of the Cherokee Indians will be here tonight to arrange a date for his team with the Paducah Kitty league team. The Indians carry electric lights and it is probable that the games arranged will be both afternoon and night on the 8th.

A Kitty league baseball meeting will be held shortly in Clarksville to decide on the schedule and to make changes if necessary. The meeting will be called as soon as a satisfactory date can be arranged.

Judge Thomas P. Cook, of Murray, was in the city today en route to Eddyville to hold court, which began there today.

SOAKED IN COFFEE.

UNTIL TOO STIFF TO BEND OVER.

"When I drank coffee I often had sick headaches, nervousness and biliousness much of the time but about two years ago I went to visit a friend and got in the habit of drinking Postum.

"I have never touched coffee since and the result has been that I have been entirely cured of all my stomach and nervousness trouble.

"My mother was just the same way, we all drink Postum now and have never had any other coffee in the house for two years and we are all well.

"A neighbor of mine, a great coffee drinker, was troubled with pains in her side for years and was an invalid. She was not able to do her work and could not even mend clothes or do anything at all where she would have to bend forward. If she tried to do a little hard work she would get such pains that she would have to lie down for the rest of the day.

"I persuaded her at last to stop drinking coffee and try Postum Food Coffee and she did so and she has used Postum ever since; the result has been that she can now do her work, can sit for a whole day and mend and can sew on the machine and she never feels the least bit of pain in her side in fact she has got well and it shows coffee was the cause of the whole trouble.

"I could also tell you about several other neighbors who have been cured by quitting coffee and using Postum in its place." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Had Pains in His Back.

Dear Sir:—Some six months ago a friend recommended to me your justly celebrated Kidney and Backache Cure. I was at that time suffering intensely from pains in my back.

My work daily aggravated the complaint and I was in torture all the time. After taking two bottles of your medicine I was relieved and two more completely cured me. I feel like a new man now, thanks to your Remedy, and unhesitatingly recommend it to those suffering as I was.

SUFFERED ALL HER LIFE.

Miss Emma Melvain Could Find No Relief Until She Took Shoffner's Sure Cure.

Covington, Tenn., March 27, 1901.
Mr. M. L. Shoffner,
Shoffner-Hayes Med. Co.

To give you a full description how I suffered from indigestion would make a book when written out. Will tell you as near as I can in as few words as possible. I have suffered with indigestion for years, in fact, nearly all my life, but did not know it, until four years past, and my physician told me. He put me on malted milk and a tonic which did me no good, and I lived on the milk nine months without missing a meal. I was almost starved and commenced to get very thin. Then thought it would finally kill me. Up to November 1900, I suffered fearfully, and sometimes I thought every breath would be the last one. I was so weak that I could walk but a few steps without resting, and vomited day and night, was so badly swollen it was painful to move. My limbs and back hurt me so I couldn't rest day or night. I am sure nobody ever suffered more than I did with indigestion. I had heard of your medicine, Shoffner's Sure Cure, but of course had no faith in it like all others, but in November I decided to try it. I commenced to try it on Friday at dinner and by Sunday dinner had taken six doses, and went down to dinner and ate just what I wanted of everything on the table, and it didn't hurt me at all. I have taken four bottles and am stronger and feel better than I have in years. I tell everybody to take your medicine and advertise it all can. You can use what you please of this letter, and I sincerely hope it will help you sell your medicine. I can truthfully say it is fine for indigestion. I hope God may spare you to live and make this medicine always. With best wishes all along through life for you.

Theatrical Notes.

Tonight will begin the four weeks' engagement of Miss Tucker and her stock company at the Kentucky. The company, most of whom have been in Miss Tucker's supporting companies before, were brought in from the four quarters of the United States. It numbers fourteen acting people, and includes six specialty artists. The plays are all good. The best in their own particular lines, and when costumed, mounted and set in the pains-taking and lavish manner which marks all Miss Tucker's productions, interspersed with bright and novel specialties, and offered at the prices which will prevail throughout the engagement, make them worthy of consideration and attention. The opening play is called a heart story of today, entitled "Love's Sacrifice." It deals with society life in New York. Introduces many unique and pleasing characters, but all are true to life, and brimming over with naturalness. The play was one of the greatest successes of the Empire theater Stock Company in New York for which it was written. On the opening night specialties will be introduced by R. E. Johnston, Arthur Van and the phenomenal child baritone, Margaret Federoth.

Mr. Brandon has put on sale at the box office a season ticket good for twelve performances, which can be used at any twelve performances throughout the four weeks of the engagement. Coupons are issued at the box office for any performance desired. The price is $2. Prices for the engagement are 10 and 20 cents. Lower floor and balcony 20 cents. Gallery 10 cents. All matinees 10 cents.

The Ted Faust Minstrels pleased two audiences at the Kentucky Saturday. It is a clever show, and presented several new features and a number of talented people, among them three Kentucky boys. With this attraction the regular season at the Kentucky closed, and tonight the Ethel Tucker stock company begins a four weeks engagement.

GOOD SPIRITS.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass state could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred and one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the great of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over 35 years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. For sale by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

RHEUMATISM

AN INDESCRIBABLE TORTURE

Because Rheumatism sometimes comes on suddenly it doesn't prove that it is a chance disease or one due to accidental causes. It takes time for it to develop, and is at work in the system long before any symptoms are felt. The blood is the first point of attack, and the poisonous acids that cause the aches and pains are then distributed through the circulation to different parts of the system, and settle in joints, muscles and nerves; and when the system is in this condition it needs only some exciting cause like exposure to night air, damp, chilly weather, or the cold, bleak winds of winter, to arouse the slumbering poisons and bring on Rheumatism. The severity of the attack depends upon the amount of acid in the blood and the quantity of acid matter in the joints and muscles. Some people are almost helpless from the first, while others have occasional spells or are uncomfortable, restless, nervous and half sick all the time from the nagging aches and pains. Rheumatism is a disagreeable companion even in its mildest form. It grows worse as we grow older, and frequently stiffens the joints, draws the muscles out of shape and breaks down the nervous system. A disease that originates in the blood, as Rheumatism does, cannot be cured with external remedies like liniments and plasters; such things scatter the pains or drive them to some other part of the body, but do not touch the disease or improve the condition of the blood. The thin acid blood must be restored to its normal purity and strength, so that all poisonous substances may be carried out of the system, and no medicine accomplishes this in so short a time as S.S.S., which not only neutralizes the acids and counteracts the poisons, but builds up the general health at the same time.

RHEUMATISM IN ELBOWS, WRISTS AND KNEES.

Urbana, Ohio, Aug. 25, 1903.
Last winter I had a severe attack of Rheumatism. It started in the right elbow, and from there to my wrists; the right wrist was the worse. It became swollen and extremely painful. My left knee joint was the next place to be attacked. It became swollen and of course painful. The next point to be affected was the hip and ankle, which gave me much trouble. I was barely able to get about for some time. I was under treatment of a physician for a while, but getting no better I began S. S. S., and after taking it for some time I was entirely relieved of the Rheumatism. All swelling and soreness disappeared. I consider S. S. S. an excellent remedy for Rheumatism and all troubles having their origin in the blood.

Filigree Ball

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,
Author of "The Mystery of Agatha Webb," "Lost Man's Lane," Etc.

Copyright, 1903, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

This was pointed enough, certainly, but when at the conclusion of his words a tall figure rose from a near corner and Cora Tuttle passed the amazed group with a bow I dare warrant that not one of the men composing it but wished himself a hundred miles away.

With this incident filling my mind, I returned to Washington. I had acquainted myself with the open facts of this family's history. But what of its inner life? Who knew it? Did any one?

CHAPTER VII.

THE next morning my duty led me directly in the way of that little friend of mine whom I have already mentioned. It is strange how often my duty did lead me in her way.

She is a demure little creature, with wits as bright as her eyes, which is saying a great deal, and, while in the course of our long friendship I had admired without making use of the special abilities I saw in her, I felt that the time had now come when they might prove of inestimable value to me.

Greeting her with pardonable abruptness, I expressed my wishes in these possibly alarming words:

"Jinny, you can do something for me. Find out—I know you can, and that, too, without arousing suspicion or compromising either of us—where Mr. Moore of Waverley avenue buys his groceries, and, when you have done that, whether or not he has lately resupplied himself with candles."

Jinny aids the detective

The surprise which she showed had a touch of naivete in it which was very encouraging.

"Mr. Moore," she cried, "the uncle of her who—who?"

"The very same," I responded and waited for her questions without adding a single word in way of explanation.

She gave me a look—oh, what a look! It was as encouraging to the detective as it was welcome to the lover, after which she nodded, once in doubt, once in question and once in frank and laughing consent, and darted off.

I thanked Providence for such a self contained little aid-de-camp and proceeded on my way in a state of great self satisfaction.

An hour later I came upon her again. It is really extraordinary how frequently the paths of some people cross.

"Well?" I asked.

"Mr. Moore deals with Simpkins, just two blocks away from his house, and only a week ago he bought some candles there."

I rewarded her with a smile which summoned into view the most exasperating of dimples.

"You had better patronize Simpkins yourself for a little while," I suggested, and by the arch glance with which my words were received I perceived that my meaning was fully understood.

Experiencing from this moment an increased confidence, not only in the powers of my little friend, but in the line of investigation thus happily established, I cast about for means of settling the one great question which was a necessary preliminary to all future action—whether the marks detected by me in the dust of the mantel in the southwest chamber had been made by the hand of him who had lately felt the need of candles, albeit his house appeared to be fully lighted by gas?

The point aimed at was this: To obtain without Mr. Moore's knowledge an accurate impression of his finger tips.

The task presented difficulties, but these served only to increase my ardor. Confiding to the lieutenant of the precinct my great interest in the mysterious house with whose suggestive interior I had made myself acquainted under such tragic circumstances, I asked him as a personal favor to obtain for me an opportunity of spending another night there. He was evidently surprised by the request, and being, as I have intimated, favorably disposed to me, he exerted himself to such good effect that I was formally detailed to assist in keeping watch over the premises that very night.

As I prepared to enter the old house at nightfall I allowed myself one short glance across the way to see if my approach had been observed by the man whose secret, if secret he had, I was laying plans to surprise. I was met by a sight I had not expected. Pausing on the pavement in front of me stood a handsome, elderly gentleman whose appearance was so fashionable and thoroughly up to date that I should have failed to recognize him if my glance had not taken in at the same instant the figure of Rudge crouching obstinately on the edge of the curb, where he had evidently posted himself in vain his master, for the well dressed man before me was no less a personage than the whilom but of all the boys between the capitol and the treasury building, signaled and commanded him to cross to his side. Nothing could induce the mastiff to budge from that quarter of the street where he felt himself safe.

Mr. Moore, gliding in the prospect of unlimited wealth, presented a startling contrast in more ways than one to the poverty stricken old man whose curious garb and lonely habits had made him an object of ridicule to half the town. I own that I was half amused and half averted by the condescending bow with which he greeted my offhand nod and the affable way in which he remarked:

"You are making use of your prerogatives as a member of the police, I see."

The words came as easily from his lips as if his practice in affability had been of the very longest.

"I wonder how the old place enjoys its present distinction," he went on, running his eye over the dilapidated walls under which we stood, with very evident pride in their vast proportions and the air of gloomy grandeur which dignified them. "If it partakes in the slightest degree of the feelings of its owner, I can vouch for his impatience at the free use which is made of its time worn rooms and halls. Are these intrusions necessary? Now that Mrs. Jeffrey's body has been removed, do you feel that the scene of her demise need hold the attention of the police any longer?"

"That is a question to put to the superintendent and not to me," was my deprecating reply. "The major has issued no orders for the watch to be taken off, so we men have no choice. I am sorry if it offends you. Doubtless a few days will end the matter, and the keys will be given into your hand. I suppose you are anxious to move in?"

He cast a glance behind him at his dog, gave a whistle, which passed unheeded, and replied, with dignity, if but little heart:

"When a man has passed his seventh decade he is not apt to be so patient with delay as when he has a prospect of many years before him. I am anxious to enter my own house—yes, I have much to do there."

I remounted the steps, carelessly remarking:

"I'll see you again after taking a turn through the house. If I discover anything, ghost marks or human marks which might be of interest to you, I'll let you know."

It was necessary for the success of my plan that some time should elapse before I reapproached Mr. Moore. I therefore kept my word to him and satisfied my own curiosity by taking a fresh tour through the house. Naturally, in doing this, I visited the library. Here all was dark. The faint twilight still illuminating the street failed to penetrate here. I was obliged to light my lantern.

My first glance was toward the fireplace. Venturesome hands had been there. Not only had the fender been drawn out and the grate set aside, but the huge settle had been wrenched free from the mantel and dragged into the center of the room. Rather pleased at this change, for with all my apparent bravado I did not enjoy too close a proximity to the cruel hearthstone, I stopped to give this settle a thorough investigation. The result was disappointing. To all appearance—and I did not spare it the experiment of many a thump and knock—it was a perfectly innocuous piece of furniture, clumsy of build, but solid and absolutely devoid of anything that could explain the tragedies which had occurred so near it. I even sat down on its musty old cushion and shut my eyes, but was unrewarded by alarming visions or disturbance of any sort. Nor did the floor where it had stood yield any better results to the inquiring eye.

Inspecting the library fireplace

Nothing was to be seen there but the marks left by the removal of its base from the blackened boards.

Disgusted with myself if not with this object of my present disappointment, I left that portion of the room in which it stood and crossed to where I had found the little table on the night of Mrs. Jeffrey's death. It was no longer there. It had been set back against the wall, where it properly belonged, and the candelabrum removed. Nor was the kitchen chair any longer to be seen near the bookshelves. This fact, small as it was, caused me an instant of chagrin. I had intended to look again at the book which I had examined with such unsatisfactory results the time before. A glance showed me that this book had been pushed back level with the others. But I remembered its title, and had the means of reaching it been at hand I should certainly have stolen another peep at it.

Upstairs I found the same signs of police interference. The shutter had been fastened in the southwest room and the bouquet and wrap taken away from the bed. The handkerchief also was missing from the mantel where I had left it, and when I opened the closet door it was found the floor bare and the second candelabrum and candle removed.

"All gone," thought I—"each and every clue."

But I was mistaken. In another moment I came upon the minute flings I had before observed scattered over a small stand. Concluding from this that they had been passed over by Durbin and his associates as valueless, I swept them, together with the dust in which they lay, into an old envelope I happily found in my pocket. Then I crossed to the mantel and made a close inspection of its now empty shelf. The scratches which I had made there were visible enough, but the impressions for which they stood had vanished in the handling which everything in the house had undergone. Regarding with great thankfulness the result of my own foresight, I made haste to leave the room. I then proceeded to take my first steps in the ticklish experiment by which I hoped to determine whether Uncle David had had any share in the fatal business which had rendered the two rooms I had just visited so memorable.

First satisfying myself by a peep through the front drawing room window that he was positively at watch behind the vines, I went directly to the kitchen, procured a chair and carried it into the library, where I put it to a use that to an onlooker's eye would have appeared very peculiar. Planting it squarely on the hearthstone—not without some secret perturbation as to what the results might be to myself—I mounted it and took down the engraving which I have already described as hanging over this mantelpiece.

Setting it on end against one of the jambs of the fireplace, I mounted the chair once more and carefully sifted over the high shelf the contents of a little package which I had brought with me for this purpose.

Then, leaving the chair where it was, I took myself out of the front door, ostensibly stopping to lock it and to put the key in my pocket.

Crossing immediately to Mr. Moore's side of the street, I encountered him, as I had expected to do, at his own gateway.

"Well, what now?" he inquired, with the same exaggerated courtesy I had noticed in him on a previous occasion. "You have the air of a man bringing news. Has anything fresh happened in the old house?"

I assumed a frankness which seemed to impose on him.

"Do you know," I sententiously informed him, "I have a wonderful interest in that old hearthstone, or, rather, in the seemingly innocent engraving hanging over it of Benjamin Franklin at the court of France. I tell you frankly that I had no idea of what would be found behind the picture."

I saw by his quick look that I had stirred up a hornet's nest. This was just what I had calculated to do.

"Behind it?" he repeated. "There is nothing behind it."

I laughed, shrugged my shoulders and backed slowly toward the door.

"Of course you should know," I retorted, with some condescension. Then as if struck by a sudden remembrance: "Oh, by the way, have you been told that there is a window on that floor which does not stay fastened? I speak of it that you may have it repaired as soon as the police vacate. It's the last one in the hall leading to the negro quarters. If you shake it hard enough, the catch falls back, and any one can raise it even from the outside."

"I will see to it," he replied, dropping his eyes, possibly to hide their curious twinkle. "But what do you mean about finding something in the wall behind that old picture? I've never heard."

But, though he spoke quickly and shouted the last words after me at the top of his voice, I was by this time too far away to respond save by a dubious smile and a semipatronizing wave of the hand. Not until I was nearly out of earshot did I venture to shout back the following words:

"I'll be back in an hour. If anything happens, if the boys annoy you or any one attempts to enter the old house, telephone to the station or summon the officer at the corner. I don't believe any harm will come from leaving the place to itself for awhile."

Then I walked around the block.

When I arrived in front again it was quite dark. So was the house, but there was light in the library. I felt assured that I should find Uncle David there, and I did. When after a noiseless entrance and a careful advance through the hall I threw open the door beyond the gilded pillars it was to see the tall figure of this old man mounted upon the chair I had left there peering up at the nail from which I had so lately lifted the picture.

He started as I presented myself and almost fell from the chair. But the careless laugh I uttered assured him of the little importance I placed upon this evidence of his daring and unappeasable curiosity, and he confronted me with an enervated air of dignity, whereupon I managed to say:

"Really, Mr. Moore, I'm glad to see you here. It is quite natural for you to wish to learn by any means in your power what that picture concealed. I came back because I suddenly remembered that I had forgotten to relight it."

"It has concealed nothing," he retorted. "You can see yourself that the wall is bare and that it rings as sound as any chimney piece ever made." Here he struck it heavily with his fist. "What did you imagine that you had found?"

I smiled, shrugged my shoulders in tantalizing repetition of my former action upon a like occasion and then answered brusquely:

"I did not come back to betray police secrets, but to restore this picture to its place. Or perhaps you prefer to have it down rather than up? It isn't much of an ornament."

He scrutinized me darkly from over his shoulder, a wary gleam showing itself in his shrewd old eyes, and the idea crossed me that the moment might possess more significance than appeared. But I did not step backward nor give evidence in any way that I had even thought of danger. I simply laid my hand on the picture and looked up at him for orders.

He promptly signified that he wished it hung, adding as I hesitated these words: "The pictures in this house are supposed to stay on the walls where they belong. There is a traditional superstition against removing them."

I immediately lifted the print from the floor. No doubt he had me at a disadvantage, if evil was in his heart, and my position on the hearth was as dangerous as previous events had proved it to be. But it would not do to show the white feather at a moment when his fate, if not my own, hung in the balance; so, motioning him to step down, I put foot on the chair and raised the picture aloft to hang it. As I did so he moved over to the huge settle of his ancestors and, crossing his arms over its back, surveyed me with a smile I rather imagined than saw.

Suddenly, as I strained to put the cord over the nail, he called out:

"Look out! You'll fall!"

If he had intended to give me a start in payment for my previous rebuff he did not succeed, for my nerves had grown steady and my arm firm at the glimpse I had caught of the shelf below me. The fine brown powder I had scattered there had been displaced in five distinct spots, and not by my fingers. I had preferred to risk the loss of my balance rather than rest my hand on the shelf, but he had taken no such precaution. The clew I so anxiously desired and for which I had so recklessly worked was obtained.

But when, half an hour later, I found an opportunity of measuring these marks and comparing them with those upstairs I did not enjoy the full triumph I had promised myself, for the two impressions utterly failed to coincide, thus proving that whoever the person was who had been in this house with Mrs. Jeffrey on the evening she died it was not her Uncle David.

CHAPTER VIII.
LET me repeat. The person who had left the marks of his presence in the upper chamber of the Moore house was not the man popularly known as Uncle David. Who, then, had it been? But one name suggested itself to me—Mr. Jeffrey.

It was not so easy for me to reach this man as it had been for me to reach his singular and unimaginative uncle. In the first place, his door had been closed to every one since his wife's death. Neither friends nor strangers could gain admittance there unless they came vested with authority from the coroner. And this, even if I could manage to obtain it, would not answer in my case. What I had to say and do would better follow a chance encounter. But no chance encounter with this gentleman seemed likely to fall to my lot, and finally I swallowed my pride and asked another favor of the lieutenant. Would he see that I was given an opportunity for carrying some message or of doing some errand which would lead to my having an interview with Mr. Jeffrey? If he would I stood ready to promise that my curiosity should stop at this point and that I would cease to make a nuisance of myself.

I think he suspected me by this time, but he made no remark, and in a day or so I was summoned to carry a note to the house in K Street.

THE PETIT JURY IMpaneled TODAY

Big Cases Will Now be Tried in Circuit Court.

Most of the Cases in Police Court
Were of Minor Importance
Today.

NEWS OF LOCAL COURTS

Circuit Judge William Reed this morning convened the second week of the civil circuit court and took up the trial of cases.

The petit jury was empaneled as

Houser, B. F. Bumpous, R. H. Ward,

Downs and J. D. Bennett.

The only case tried this morning was that of Allen Johnson against James Eaker. A verdict was returned from the defendant. Johnson is colored, and claimed Mr. Eaker assaulted him with a stick and nearly killed him. He asked for $500 damages.

A judgment for $147.90 was rendered in the action of F. Mitchell & Bro. against W. P. Hawkins and others.

POLICE COURT.

Jeff Young was arraigned on two warrants and fined $10 and costs in one case and dismissed in the other.

A white man named Luftenberg was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

Ed Bell and Newt Holmes, colored, were arraigned for fighting, and the former dismissed and the latter fined $10 and costs.

Alex Williams, colored, was fined $5 and costs for a breach of the peace.

Henry Harding, colored, who went into another man's house while intoxicated and refused to leave, was fined $20 and costs. He swore at the residents when they attempted to put him out.

The breach of ordinance case against Lizzie Jones, colored, was

IT WAS A FAKE.

Sheriff Lee Potter has returned from Lexington and Frankfort. He states that the reports in the Louisville and Lexington papers that the boy Gantish he took to the reform school had to be brought back because there was no room for him, are untrue. The boy was left at the reform school. One Louisville paper even said that the sheriff was there on his way back to Paducah with the prisoner and kept him in jail at Louisville over night.
